READ FOR THE STARS!

Truro Central School students recently finished two weeks of serious reading. The annual TCS Reading Challenge took a different turn this year as students tracked the number of minutes they read each night.

For each 10-15 minutes of reading, students earned one raffle ticket that they then dropped in their choice of jars for a chance to win 24 prizes. Each morning, you could find a line of students in the library waiting to cash in their colored in stars for raffle tickets.

Some of the most popular prizes were a moon ball, Kadima paddle ball, a stuffed snow bear, and a giant deck of cards. Special thanks to Ben & Jerry's in Eastham for donating ice cream cone gift certificates and The Pump House Surf Shop for donating a variety of surf stickers. Our parent group, the Truro Educational and Enrichment Alliance, offers each teacher a classroom grant for special programs or materials. This year, the library grant was used to purchase prizes.

The highly anticipated drawing occurred at the end of school before the long weekend. It was exciting to see who won the prizes. Everyone had a lot of fun and did some great reading!

Salad Day

Susie and Jamie are always creating the best lunches for us using fresh, and often times, local ingredients.

One of the favorite “special” lunch days is Salad Day. Last month, they put out a spread of 13 different kinds of salads to choose from—tuna, egg salad, taco, kale, pea, and pesto pasta to name just a few.

Lunches are amazing at TCS!!!

Finding Inspiration at PAAM

TCS 5th & 6th grade students visited PAAM recently and participated in an Art Enrichment activity with artist Lynn Stanley. Students drew images on plates that were inspired by the prints of Clare Leighton. Plates were glazed and fired and the diverse results are displayed here.
